The Positive Organizations Consortium is the preeminent peer-to-peer learning and networking cooperative designed to enhance the business effectiveness and sustainability of positive organizational change. The Consortium unites researchers and organizational change leaders in the quest to build a better working world where employees are healthier, more engaged, and more loyal, and companies are more financially successful.

Key areas of focus include:

- Employee engagement and retention
- Positive leadership
- Learning and development
- Positive relationships, meaning, and purpose
- Making the business case for positive organizations
Membership

DETAILS
• Biannual in-person events for two (2) people from member organizations
• Regular webinars and research-focused events for up to ten (10) organizational participants

BENEFITS
In this exclusive peer network, members inspire one another, spur new action, share research and resources, and sustain the community of practitioners. Members also:
• Collaborate with other industry leaders at private member meetings and within member-driven working groups.
• Learn how others are applying the research concepts in ways that improve business performance.
• Get priority access to cutting-edge research linking positive practices to organizational resilience, innovation, and growth.
• Participate in new research projects or initiate custom research with Center for Positive Organizations faculty designed to promote evidence-based HR practices.
• Build relationships with selective students with an expressed interest in Positive Organizational Scholarship.
• Receive significant tuition discounts on select Michigan Ross Executive Education programs, such as “Becoming a Positive Leader.”

2016 RATES
Rates vary based on company revenue and type. For companies that make:

More than $500MM revenues/year:
• $10,000 for one year
• $25,000 for three years

Less than $500MM revenues/year or governmental/non-profit organizations:
• $5,000 for one year
• $12,000 for three years

To learn more about the Positive Organizations Consortium, visit: positiveorgs.bus.umich.edu/consortium

Center for Positive Organizations
EQUIPPING LEADERS TO BUILD GREAT PLACES TO WORK

Michigan Ross is working to redefine “business” as a place of purpose, contribution, and growth—for individuals and society. That belief in the power of business as a force for positive change in the world is reflected here at the Center for Positive Organizations.

Over the last 15 years we have earned international recognition for our impact on research and practice. We are the leading research hub focused on the leadership, strategies, systems, culture, and practices of high-performing organizations that enable people to be their best selves in the workplace.